

Key migration data at a glance

281 million — Up from 272 million international migrants globally in 2020, or 3.6 per cent of the

Females ^(a)	135 million international female migrants globally in 2020, or 3.5 per cent of the world's female population	◆ Up from 130 million (or 3.4%) in 2019
Males ^(a)	146 million international male migrants globally in 2020, or 3.7 per cent of the world's male population	◆ Up from 141 million (or 3.6%) in 2019
Labour migrants ^(b)	169 million migrant workers globally in 2019	◆ Up from 164 million globally in 2017
Missing migrants ^(c)	Around 3,900 dead and missing globally in 2020	● Down from almost 5,400 in 2019

world's population

43 million

Latin American migrants

+ 15 million

migrants from LAC living in another country of the Region

3 million

extracontinental migrants in LAC

+ 700.000

migrants in transit from the Northern Triangle of Central America to the U.S.

+980.000

persons deported to the Northern Triangle of Central America (2016-2021)

5,9 million

LAC migrant workers

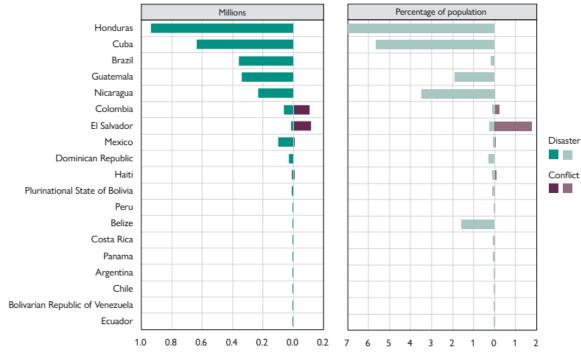

89.4 million Up from 84.8 million people were living in in 2019 displacement globally at the end of 2020 (includes refugees, asylum seekers, displaced

	Refugees ^(e)	26.4 million refugees globally in 2020	↑ Up from 26 million in 2019
	Asylum seekers ^(e)	4.1 million asylum seekers globally in 2020	◆ Down from 4.2 million in 2019
	Displaced Venezuelans ^(e)	3.9 million Venezuelans displaced globally in 2020 (not including those who were refugees or asylum seekers)	◆ Up from 3.6 million in 2019
	Internally displaced persons (IDPs) ^(f)	55 million IDPs globally in 2020: 48 million due to conflict and violence; 7 million due to disasters	◆ Up from 51 million in 2019

Venezuelans and IDPs)

Figure 28. Top Latin and Caribbean countries by new internal displacements (disaster and conflict), 2020

Source: IDMC, n.d.; UN DESA, 2021.

18,3 million
IDPs in LAC

~ 1 million

Refugees from LAC

+ 116.000

New asylum applications in Mexico

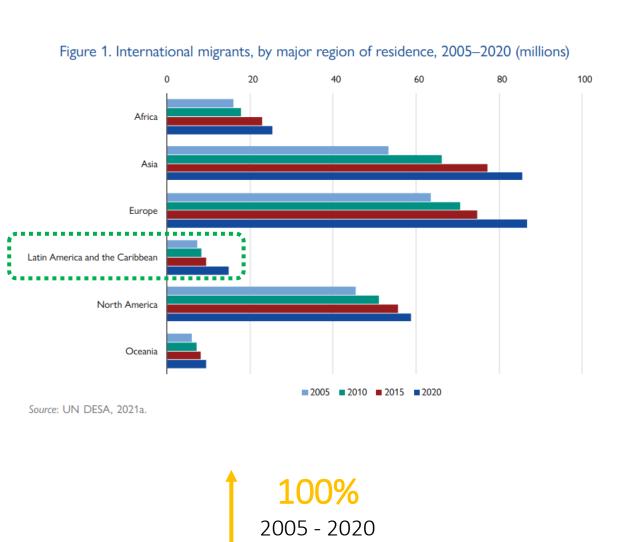

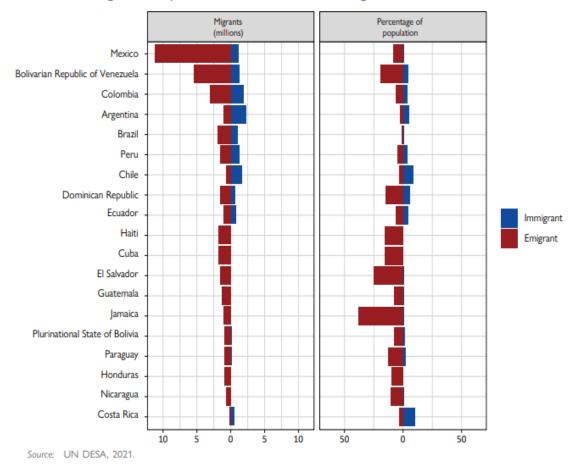

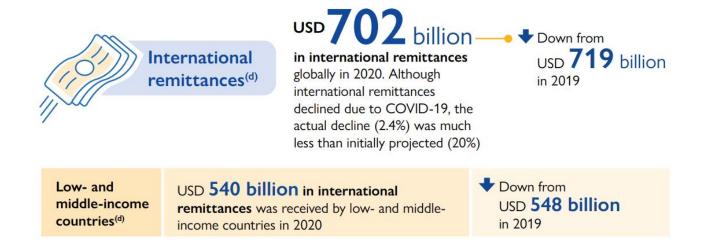

Figure 23. Top Latin America and Caribbean migrant countries, 2020

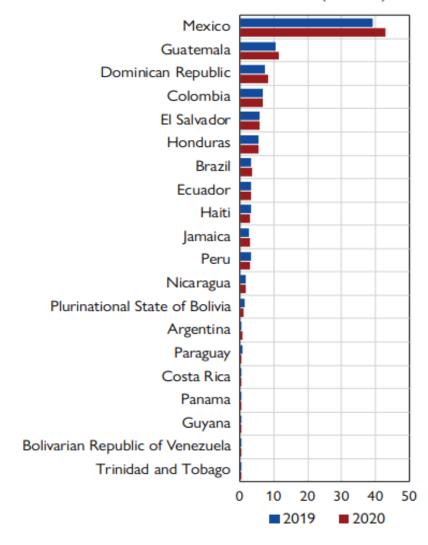

Emigration but now Inmigration too

- In 2021, remittance flows increased by 21.6% in Latin America and the Caribbean: USD 126.000 million
- Mexico was the main recipient of remittances in the region, with 42% (USD 52.700 million).
- The value of remittances as a percentage of GDP exceeds 20% in several of the region's economies: Honduras (26.6%), El Salvador (26.2%), Jamaica (23.6%) and Guatemala (18%).

Total in USD billion (inflows)

Source: World Bank, 2021.

Key reflections

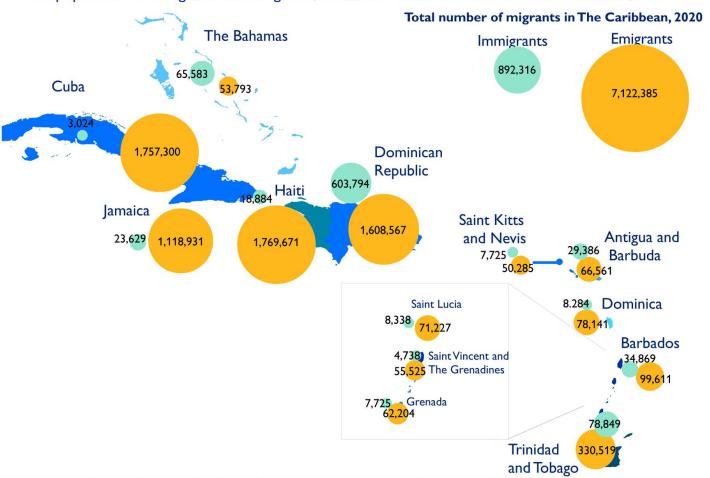

nte: United Nations, Department of Economic and Social Affairs. Population Division (2020) nternational Migrant Stock 2020 (United Nations database, POP/DB/MIG/Stock/Rev.2020).

- The COVID-19 pandemic impacted migration and mobility in Central America and the Caribbean, while also exacerbating existing vulnerabilities among migrants, including those in transit.
- Migration northward remains a significant trend, with mixed migration from the northern region of Central America.
- Environmental change and disasters are influencing human movement and displacement in the subregion.

Key reflections

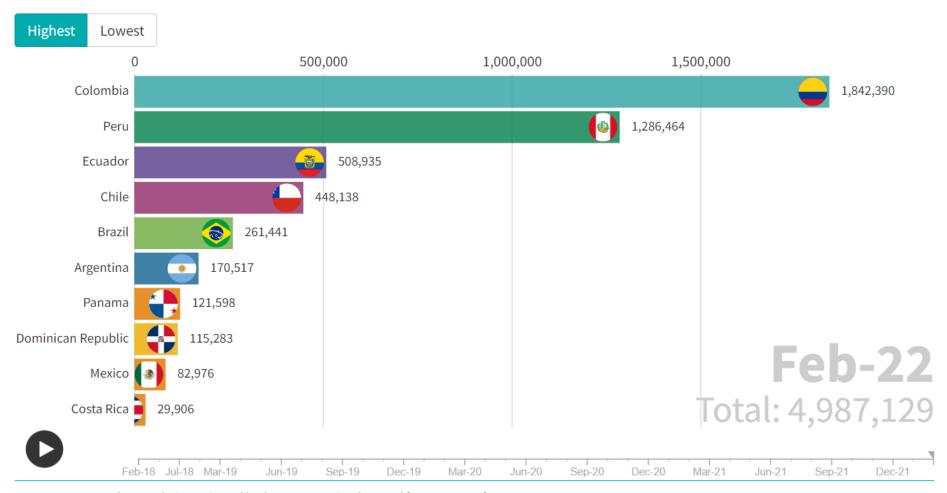

- Migration dynamics in the Caribbean remain largely characterized by emigration, although the recent arrival of Venezuelan refugees and migrants has added to the complexities in the subregion.
- Trafficking in persons trends in the sub-region continue to rise with many victims remaining unidentified or inadequately assisted.

ource: United Nations, Department of Economic and Social Affairs. Population Division (2020). International Migrant Stock 2020 (United Nations database, POP/DB/MIG/Stock/Rev.202

EVOLUTION OF THE FIGURES IN THE R4V 17 COUNTRIES

+6 million

Venezuelan migrants

85%

Venezuelan migrants in LAC

33%

Venezuelan migrants In Colombia

Source: R4V Venezuelan population registered by the R4V. Reporting dates and frequency vary from country to country.

Key reflections

- The global pandemic disrupted migration in South America, impacting return migration and displacement.
- Regularizing displaced Venezuelans remains a challenge for countries in South America as the region confronts one of the largest humanitarian crises in its recent history.
- Intraregional migration has grown at a fast rate in South America, with women migrants contributing to this increase.

Final considerations

- In LAC region, human mobility and displacement flows have a medium-and long-term perspective.
- It is important to promote the localization of migration management in the region under the framework of the triple nexus humanitariandevelopment-peace.
- As societies, we face a fundamental challenge: working to reduce discrimination and xenophobia and to maintain social cohesion.

