

Challenges of the New Government in Brazil

Thursday, February 2, 2023

2:00-3:30 pm EST

In person and Live Webinar

FIU MMC, Graham Center 355

Lula's third term as president is likely to be very different from his first two in 2003-2010. As the attack on the Congress, Supreme Court, and presidential palace on January 8, 2023 reminded us, one difference lies in the relationship between government and society, and in particular the existence of militant right-wing movements that engage in protests. This panel will explore the main challenges of the incoming Lula administration and the various strategies and policy options that the administration could choose.

Live Webinar Registration:

<https://go.fiu.edu/Brazil>

In Person Registration:

<https://go.fiu.edu/Brazil-Live>

Image Source: <https://www.pbs.org/newshour/world/brazils-lula-sworn-in-as-president-to-lead-a-polarized-country>

Speakers:

Dr. Angela Alonso

Professor, Department of Sociology, University of São Paulo

Sergio Fausto

Director General, Fernando Henrique Cardoso
Foundation, São Paulo, Brazil

Dr. Matias Spektor

Visiting Fellow, Institute for International and Regional Studies, Princeton University

Moderator:

Dr. Anthony Pereira

Director, Kimberly Green Latin American and Caribbean Center (LACC) and Professor,
Department of Politics and International Relations,
Florida International University (FIU)

Part of LACC's Program of Excellence in Brazilian
Studies (PROBRAS). For more information, email
ldudley@fiu.edu.